The Patriarch then went on to visit the adjacent High School and the Girls Orphanage, which were also built by Cretan donors and held discussions with the Director and the teachers, then gave the pupils some stationery. After that he visited the nursery school and gave the children sweets and icons.

All the teachers and pupils gave His Beatitude a warm welcome and sang and danced in traditional rhythms. Finally, His Beatitude visited the parish of St Raphael and conducted the memorial prayers at the grave of the late Bishop George Gadouna of Nitria, the first African Bishop of Kenya.
